The purpose of this symposium is to celebrate the launch of a brand new corpus of spoken English, the London–Lund Corpus 2 (LLC–2) half a century after the launch of the first London–Lund Corpus. To this end, we are pleased to present an excellent line-up of prominent researchers with an interest in the nature of spontaneous speech in real communicative situations.

- Professor Herbert Clark, Stanford University (Keynote speaker)
- Professor Bas Aarts, University College London
- Professor Karin Aijmer, Gothenburg University
- Professor Jonathan Culpeper, Lancaster University
- Dr Robbie Love, University of Leeds
- Dr Susan Reichelt, University of Greifswald
- Professor Gunnel Tottie, University of Zurich

ALL WELCOME!

Arranged with the support of The Birgit Rausing Language Programme and the Royal Society of Letters at Lund

Main Auditorium, Centre for Languages and Literature, Lund University, 20 September, 2019